

Private Mentoring

One on One Mentoring is invaluable. If you want to increase your skills and abilities in a couple of hours rather than a couple of weeks, or even months, then this is the method for you.

It's particularly useful if you are stuck on one aspect of content creation such as editing and want to push through it.

It might be that you want someone there with you when you do your first interview on Zoom or in person.

If you want to make use of the recording equipment on offer or have your own but aren't quite sure how it all works, then one on one mentoring offers great support when things get a little techy.

Perhaps you just want to start at the beginning and learn what it takes to design, plan and produce a show.

These sessions are tailored to your specific needs.

We'll start with a free 30-minute phone consultation to get a better understanding of what those needs are.

To end the consult, a booking will be made for your first mentoring session.

Don't be afraid to ask lots questions, it helps me to understand where you're at with it all!

I'll let you in on a little secret: When I started presenting my first radio show on Bondi FM back in 2003, there was no training apart from a quick once over on the desk and then you were left to your own devices. In the true nature of a volunteer organisation, some weeks I would go in and the studio desk settings had been changed so I'd have to put a call out on air to any presenters listening and ask if they could call the station and help me work it out. Sure enough the phone would ring and I'd be told to press a certain button and it would all start working again.

I find this hilarious looking back now and feel so lucky to have been thrown in the deep end to learn from all my mistakes and believe me there were MANY!

We all must start somewhere and wherever that somewhere is for you I hope I am able to bring confidence and joy to the way you create what it is you want to share with the world.

Options for mentoring are available in person at Plantation Studios in the Byron Arts & Industry Estate and/or online via Zoom.

All ages and levels welcome.